

CPD is proof of your commitment to personal excellence. As such it is vital to maintain your knowledge at the forefront of the industry's technology. ICME can help you to do this not only by providing the information, and helping to identify suitable training and technical courses but by monitoring and recording your progress as an integral part of your membership details. Think of it as a personal business plan to enable you to work with a purpose towards your own career aspirations.

Further information about CPD and what it means to you and our industry is to be found on the ICME website: www.icme.org.uk or contact Dr Pam Murrell on tel: 0121 601 6979.

The following gives an indication of the times which may be recorded against various popular events:

1. Attending a branch/section technical meeting
1.5 hours
2. Representing the ICME at a meeting organised by a national body, such as BSI
2 hours
3. Reading "Foundry Trade Journal International" or a similar document with high technical content
1 hour
4. Attending a technical conference, (time booked is for full length of event i.e. 9.30 am to 4.30 pm)
7 hours
5. Studying a relevant course or development programme on a full or part-time basis including work based training.
